

Who Is Managing Your Connectivity?

The increased proliferation of software and managed services within the IoT ecosystem is driving strong interest from financial investors and strategic acquirers.

Do You Have a Partner With the Connections to Help You Achieve Your Strategic Objectives?

OptConnect, a provider of managed wireless IoT solutions, was a subsidiary of Grant Victor, a Utah-based operator of ATM equipment owned by Endeavour Capital. In recent years OptConnect expanded beyond its origins and leading position in the ATM industry by providing IoT connectivity to new high-growth markets such as digital signage, smart vending, transactional kiosks and industrial and energy management, among others.

Endeavour and Grant Victor wanted to unlock the value of OptConnect as a stand-alone company. Baird's Technology & Services team worked in partnership with OptConnect to execute a tailored process that delivered an exceptional outcome for OptConnect's customers, employees and shareholders.

Graham Partners' history of growing innovative companies by applying proprietary technology to transform industries makes it an ideal new partner to help OptConnect's team continue to grow across its various end-markets.

"Baird's M&A expertise ensured we were well-prepared to navigate the various stages of a successful sale process. Their relationships across software, managed services and IoT provided access to the key decision-makers at the relevant potential buyers and an efficient path to finding the best partner for OptConnect."
